

Amendment to the Abstract:

Please replace the Abstract with the following:

A two dimensional scanning device, for use in a projecting display. The scanning device includes a surface suspended by at least two torsion elements defining a torsion axis, and a first actuator for pivoting the surface around said torsion axis. A cantilever beam, arranged to bend around a bending axis is employed to provide pivoting in the second dimension.